Introduction

So what's going on?

Going to court can be a scary and confusing experience. There are a flood of emotions and feelings and a tidal wave of things coming at you. You may not know what's going on.

This book was made to help kids learn what happens in child welfare cases (when kids are taken from unsafe homes). If you are also involved in the juvenile justice system, look on page 22 of this book to find a link to a guide on that process.

There are three sections that describe who is involved in the things going on, what things might be happening, what rights you have, and who you can contact with questions or problems.

The first section covers the Child Welfare process. If the State believes children are not safe in their home, they will file charges against parent(s). The court will hear the evidence and decide if there was any abuse or neglect going on. You have a right to be involved and to be listened to. This book will show you what you can do to be heard.

The second section goes over some of the things kids need to think about as they transition into being an adult. There are lots of things you need to do when you're an adult that don't seem very important to you as a kid. But you do need to learn about those adult things as you grow up.

The last section of the book lists a lot of resources that might help you.

There are lots of people you will meet along the process. They all want to see you succeed and be the best person you can be. They all want to help you through the process. This book will help you understand those processes and what you can do to help yourself.

What exactly is the Child Welfare Process?

Understanding the process makes the entire experience less confusing and puts you in a better position to let the court know what you need. Juvenile courts started over 100 years ago in Chicago, Illinois, because people recognized that needs of kids were not being met in the adult court. Every state in the United States now has a juvenile court system.

Types of Cases Filed in Juvenile Court in Nebraska:

1. Child welfare cases generally filed against parent(s) when the state believes a child is being abused or neglected; and
2. Juvenile justice cases are filed when the State believes a kid has broken the law.

Child welfare cases are also referred to as “abuse and neglect” cases or “3(a)” cases. They are called “3(a)” cases because the law that allows the State to File the case is Nebraska Revised Statute §43-247(3)(a). In most child welfare cases, if the State files a petition, the judge will temporarily put you in the custody or care of the Department of Health and Human Services (DHHS). Then you will temporarily become a state ward, meaning that the State is responsible for your care and placement. A “3(c)” case is filed if a youth has mental health concerns that put the youth at risk of harming themselves or others.

How did this happen?

Hotline or police call — Most likely, this all started because someone believed you were being abused or neglected and called the abuse/neglect hotline or the police. Abuse and neglect can mean many different things. Abuse can be either physical abuse or sexual abuse. Neglect means your parent(s) is not meeting all of your basic needs.

Investigation — Once a person calls the hotline or the police, DHHS starts an investigation to determine if you are being abused or neglected.

Petition — If DHHS finds that you are at risk of harm in an unsafe home or environment, they ask the County Attorney to file a 3(a) petition in juvenile court. The most common reasons for filing a child welfare case are a parent’s drug or alcohol use, a parent’s mental health, domestic violence, unsafe home, or lack of supervision.

Court — When a petition is filed, that means a judge becomes involved in the case and will determine if abuse and neglect happened, if you are at risk of harm, and if your parent(s) need to do anything to fix the situation. The judge may order that you live in a foster home while your parent(s) work on ways to make your home safe. The judge will also provide you an attorney called a guardian ad litem (GAL), whose job is to talk with you and tell the judge what is in your best interests.

The goal of DHHS and juvenile court involvement is to help you and your family. They are there to give your family the services and help it needs to become whole again. Some things the court may order involves you, like family therapy, but there are other things the court may order that your parent(s) need to complete on their own, like drug treatment. However, never forget that you are part of this case and you have a voice. Your judge wants, and needs, to hear from you to make a good decision.

What exactly is the Child Welfare Process?

Who are all of these people?

There are many people who are part of a juvenile court case. Some or all of the individuals listed below may be a part of your case.

Caseworkers

If you are placed in foster care, you may meet a caseworker right away who will talk to you about what is going on. They are called initial assessment caseworkers. Later, you will get a caseworker who is assigned to your case. This is called an on-going caseworker or a family permanency specialist. Their job is to provide and coordinate services in your case and to keep in contact with you and your family on a regular basis. They also write a report to the judge to let them know how things are going.

Judge

Once a case is filed in juvenile court, a judge is assigned to the case. The judge is the person who makes the decisions about what will happen in your case. They will make sure you are getting the things you need. If you are not getting what you need, make sure to let the judge know.

Guardian ad Litem (GAL)

If you are involved in the child welfare system, you and your brothers and sisters will have a lawyer called a guardian ad litem, or GAL. The GAL is supposed to meet with you within two weeks of you being removed from your home. It is important that you talk with your GAL about what you want because their job is to work for you and what is in your best interests. Your GAL has to meet with you at least every six months but should talk with you more often than that. Your GAL should also know of major changes in your life and should know what you think and want before going into a court hearing. If you are trying to contact your GAL and they is not responding, tell your judge. You can do this at the court hearing, or you can fill out the Youth Court Questionnaire (see questionnaire on page 29).

Your Attorney

Sometimes in a child welfare case, you are entitled to an attorney, also called a lawyer. Your attorney knows how the process works and it is their job to let you know what the law is and guide you through the process. Things that you tell your attorney are confidential, meaning they cannot tell anyone else, unless you want them to. They must work towards the outcome, or ending, that you want and the court must provide you with a lawyer at no cost if you cannot afford one.

County Attorney

The attorney who brings your case to the court's attention by filing the petition in court is called a county attorney. The county attorney has to prove to the judge that what they put in the petition is true. The county attorney also represents the interests of the State and county.

Parent's Attorney

In a child welfare case, your parent(s) have a right to an attorney whose job is to advise them about the law and to advocate for their rights. If your parent(s) cannot afford an attorney, the court will appoint an attorney to represent him or her at no cost.

Court-Appointed Special Advocate (CASA)

A CASA is a volunteer who works to help you get the things you need and provide recommendations or suggestions to the court of what is in your best interests. Not every young person has a CASA volunteer, but you can ask the judge if one can be put on your case.

What exactly is the Child Welfare Process?

What happens in court?

The first step in any case is the filing of a petition. A petition is a form that says what happened that led your family to juvenile court. After the filing of a petition, there are a number of court hearings that will be held. Be sure to ask your caseworker or GAL when the hearings will be held because you have a right to be there and know what's going on. Being in court is another chance for you to talk directly to the judge and make your voice heard.

Protective Custody Hearing

When a child is removed from the home, the judge must have a hearing to figure out if taking you from the home was necessary and whether it was fair. The judge will decide whether reasonable efforts were made to keep you at home and whether you need to remain in foster care for a longer amount of time. The judge will likely talk about plans for you to see your parent(s) and your brothers and sisters (if you are not with them) and any services that can be started which can help your family. If the judge keeps you in temporary DHHS custody, this means that DHHS can make decisions regarding your care that would normally be made by your parent(s).

Adjudication Hearing

This is the hearing where the judge decides whether the allegations (allegations are the things someone claimed were happening to you that were unsafe) in the petition are true. Your parent(s) may either admit what is stated in the petition is true, or there may be a trial where the county attorney must present evidence to prove that what is stated in the petition is true. If the judge finds that the allegations are true, the court takes jurisdiction over the case. This means that the court can order certain things to be done.

Disposition Hearing

The disposition hearing is where your caseworker presents a report to the judge, which lays out what steps must be taken before you can safely be returned home. The report will recommend that your parent(s) do certain things like complete drug treatment or go to therapy.

Review Hearing

After the disposition hearing, the court will hold review hearings every three to six months. The purpose of the review hearing is for the judge to check on the progress in the case and see if anything needs to be added or removed from your case plan.

Permanency Hearing

If you are in foster care over 12 months, there will be a permanency hearing. (Learn more about Permanency on Page 35.) At this hearing the judge will take a hard look at your current permanency plan and decide if it should change or remain the same. For example, if the case goal has been for you to return home to your parent(s), but there has not been much progress towards that goal, the judge may change the goal to guardianship or adoption. The judge may also keep the goal at reunification (going back home) depending on the specific facts of your case.

Motion for Termination of Parental Rights

The law also allows the county attorney to file a motion for termination of parental rights (TPR) if it appears that reunification with your parent(s) is not possible in your case. If a TPR is filed, it is the State requesting that your parent(s)' parental rights be terminated. If your parent(s) voluntarily give up their parental rights or if the judge finds enough evidence to terminate your parent(s)' rights, you are then free to be adopted by another family member, your foster parent(s), or another person.

What exactly is the Child Welfare Process?

When do things happen?

So how long do all of these things take? The short answer is that it really depends a lot on other people.

The time lines in child welfare cases are guidelines meant to help families and get you back home, or in the best possible permanent placement, as soon as it's in your best interest. Case time-lines may be longer or shorter. Sometimes attorneys ask judges to continue, or delay, a hearing. If the judge agrees, they will grant a continuance and the hearing will be scheduled for another date.

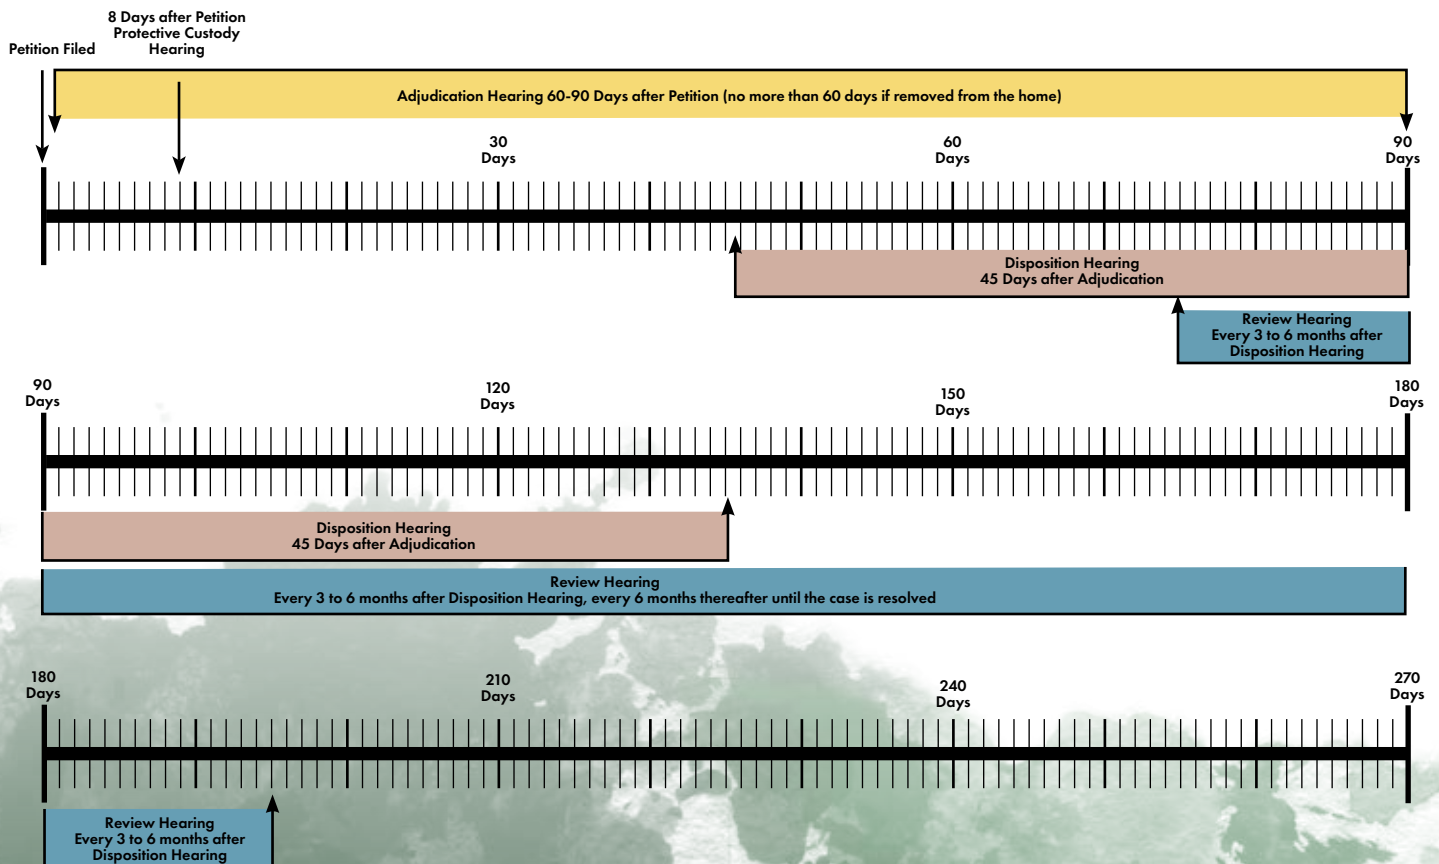

Protective Custody Hearing: This hearing should be held no later than eight days after child/youth is removed from home.

Adjudication Hearing: For children/youth removed from the home, this should be within 60 days of the petition being filed. For children/youth not removed from the home, this should be held within 90 days of filing the petition. If there are other factors, such as a termination of parental rights happening at the same time as adjudication, the case has complex issues, or the service requires additional time, the hearing may not be held in the above time-lines.

Disposition Hearing: Should be held within 45 days from the date of the adjudication hearing.

Review Hearings: Every six months.

Permanency Hearings: Twelve months after the date child/youth entered foster care, and annually every year after that.

What is a Permanency Plan?

What Can Happen – Permanency Goals

Every young person who is a state ward will have a permanency plan and a concurrent plan. A permanency plan is the main focus of the case and the concurrent plan is a back-up plan that is created in case the permanency plan does not work. The following are types of plans a court may adopt in your case. It is the judge's job to decide which plan is in your best interests.

Family Preservation

Family preservation means living with your mom and/or dad instead of going into foster care.

Reunification

Reunification means that you are in foster care now, but the goal of the case is that you return to the home that you were removed from.

Adoption

If reunification is not an option, the State may look at adoption. The State will look to see if there are other family members who are able to adopt you or your current foster parent(s) may adopt you as well. Before you can be adopted, your parent(s) must either agree to give up their parental rights or the court may terminate your parent(s)' rights. If you are over 14 years old, the law requires that you consent to the adoption.

Guardianship

Guardianship is where relatives, your foster parent(s) or other adults in your life become your legal guardian. Kids 10 years and older must consent to a guardianship. As your guardian they have many of the same rights and responsibilities as parent(s), but guardianship does not require the termination of your parent(s)' rights.

Another Planned Permanency Living Arrangement - APPLA (also known as Independent Living)

APPLA or independent living becomes more common as you get closer to your 19th birthday. If APPLA or independent living is your permanency plan, the goal of the court is to make sure that you have everything you need in order to succeed once your case is closed. Even if independent living is not your permanency plan, every young person in care who is over 16 years old must have an independent living plan.

In most cases in Nebraska – almost 70% - young people are reunified with their parent(s)

However, if that does not happen, the court will continue to keep your case open until a guardian is found, you are adopted, you enter into independent living or you turn 19 years old. As always, your input is crucial to the judge making the best decision and you have a right to tell the judge what you would like to see happen in your case.

What is a Permanency Plan?

Possible Placements

The law is clear that the goal of juvenile court is to help you and your family in a way that causes the least amount of upset to your life. If you cannot stay at your home because of treatment or safety reasons, you should live as close to your home as is possible. See Neb. Rev. Stat. §43-532.

If you can't live at home, here are some possible placements:

Non-Custodial Parent

This is your parent who may not have custody of you. For example, if you were living with your dad, but you cannot stay there, the judge may have you live at your mom's house.

Relative or Kinship Foster Home

This is the home of one of your family members, like a grandparent or cousin. Let your caseworker, probation officer, GAL and/or attorney, CASA volunteer know if there is a relative you would like to live with.

Foster Home

A foster home is another family home that the judge may place you in. The word "foster" means to help someone (or something) grow. You may not know the foster family you are living with, but they are there to give you a safe place to live and grow until you can return home.

Youth Shelter

Youth shelters are short-term placements where kids live together while they are waiting for more permanent placement. There is staff there to provide support and supervision while you are waiting to go into foster care or a group home.

Group Home

A group home is a home where several young people live together and there is staff that is trained to help kids. Group homes provide a more structured environment than foster homes.

Therapeutic Group Home

A therapeutic group home is a home where kids live together while receiving treatment and supportive services. Therapeutic group homes provide therapy, nursing supports, education, and recreational activities, and psychiatric services.

Psychiatric Residential Treatment Facility

A psychiatric residential treatment facility provides individual treatment and recovery services to kids. They provide psychiatric rehabilitation, supervision and support for kids who have severe mental health needs. There is highly trained staff who will work with you until you are ready to return home.

Independent Living

Depending on your age and specific circumstances, you may be able to explore independent living.

Things to think about when giving your opinion about a Permanency option:

How old you are when your case is closed can impact several financial assistance programs you may be eligible for.

The Bridge to Independence Program (see page 23) provides services and support for young adults, but you cannot join that program if you are adopted or go into a guardianship before you are 16 or if your case closes before you are 19. In addition, how old you are when your case closes may affect your eligibility for Education Grants or health insurance.

Make sure you talk about these programs with your GAL or another adult before you decide what is best for you.

What are my rights?

Because you matter!

The juvenile court system can be scary and confusing. You might feel powerless around judges, lawyers, caseworkers, probation officers and police officers. Which is why it is important to know that you have legal rights that NO ONE can take away. The goal of the Juvenile Court System is to help YOU and it is important you are involved in the process.

Do not let anyone tell you that you don't have rights because you are not an adult. Children and youth have the same basic rights under the United States Constitution as any human being.

Never forget that you have the right to be protected from physical, sexual, verbal and emotional abuse.

Who should be reviewing your rights with you and when?

Guardian ad Litem (GAL), Caseworker, Attorney, Foster Parent(s), CASA volunteer. If you're not sure who these people are, you can look at page 9. When you meet the people assigned to you, write their names and numbers (and email) down. There is space for that at the end of this book.

You should receive the DHHS Bill of Rights to read and sign within 72 hours of being removed from your home. This is what it looks like. →

You can find a copy on page 28 of this book.

The adults on your team should also go over these rights every 3 months at your team meetings. But you don't have to wait for these meetings to ask questions. When you have questions, you should contact the people assigned to your case.

United States Bill of Rights

The Constitution of the United States includes the Bill of Rights. The Bill of Rights is the first 10 amendments of the Constitution. We're all guaranteed these rights by the United States Constitution. We've highlighted the amendments that you probably need to know most.

1st Amendment: Freedom of religion, speech, press, assembly, and petition. You are free to practice your religion of choice, say what you think, gather peacefully in public and express your opinions to the government without punishment.

2nd Amendment: Right to keep and bear arms in order to maintain a well regulated militia.

3rd Amendment: No quartering of soldiers.

4th Amendment: Freedom from unreasonable searches and seizures. The government cannot arrest a person or search their property unless there is "probable cause" that a crime has been committed.

5th Amendment: Right to due process of law, freedom from self-incrimination, double jeopardy.

6th Amendment: Rights of accused persons, or example, right to a speedy and public trial. A person has the right to be told what they are charged with, have a fair and speedy trial by a jury, to have a lawyer during the trial and has the right to question witnesses against them and have the right to get their own witnesses to testify.

7th Amendment: Right of trial by jury in civil cases.

8th Amendment: Freedom from excessive bail, cruel and unusual punishments. The government cannot demand excessive bail, excessive fines, or any cruel and unusual punishment, including torture.

Nebraska Strengthening Families Act - Recommended Rights

In April of 2016, Nebraska passed LB746. This bill adopted the Nebraska Strengthening Families Act. The Strengthening Families Act Committee makes suggestions and recommendations - basically giving advice to lawmakers - about how to make families stronger and more stable. This includes foster families. The SFA Committee gathered feedback from many young people who were in foster care and put together a list of rights that they recommend to be adopted. They cover everything from making sure you can keep in touch with siblings and other family members to making sure you have the opportunity to learn skills to help you grow into adulthood. A lot of this is called normalcy. It's all advice to try to make your foster care experience as close to normal family life as possible, like allowing you the right to be a kid with age appropriate activities: learning to drive, going to prom or having sleepovers.

You can read all of the SFA Committee's rights for foster care at this website: <https://tinyurl.com/ya9cu2w4>

Some of the things covered by the SFA Recommended Rights

They cover your personal rights, like having your basic needs met and being able to get to a doctor when you need to. The recommended rights were drafted to make sure kids are free from discrimination on the basis of their race, gender, national origin, religion, mental or physical disability, gender identity, or sexual orientation

They cover family connections, making sure you can stay with siblings if possible, and keep in contact with family and other mentors and supportive adults. You should also be able to select an Advocate for Normalcy. This is an adult person in your life (coach, teacher, religious leader, family friend or relative) who you trust and can help you make sure that even though you are involved with the courts, your life can be as normal as possible.

There are sections on helping you get all of the rights due to you and making sure your voice is being heard throughout the process.

The permanency and transition to adulthood sections are there to make sure as time passes, you are experiencing the most normal environment possible.

Read all the SFA Committee Rights here:

How do I get people to listen to me?

Knowledge is power, but unless you use your voice, no one will know what you want to do with your life. It can be frustrating when people are making decisions about your life without your input. This section contains tips on how to make sure that your voice is heard.

Be Involved

It is important to know who your case worker is and how to get a hold of him or her. There is space in the back of this book to write down their contact information. If you move or change numbers, make sure that you tell your caseworker or probation officer so they know how to contact you.

It is also important that you talk with your case worker on a regular basis. Tell him or her that you want to attend family team meetings or other meetings where people will be talking about your case plan and your future. Your opinion matters and should be taken into consideration at every point in your case. If you don't know what's in your case plan, talk to your case worker, GAL, attorney, CASA volunteer or foster parent(s). You can also talk to the judge whenever you attend court hearings.

Attend Court

You also have a right to know when court hearings are and to attend court hearings. Judges want to know what you think about everything that is going on and will take your views into consideration when they make their orders. In child welfare cases, be sure to tell your caseworker, GAL and CASA volunteer that you want to attend court hearings.

When you go to court make sure that you are on time, dress neatly, take off your hat, and make sure to turn off your cell phone. Always be respectful when you speak to the judge and others in court. Call the judge "Your Honor."

Write down notes or ask someone to help you keep track of what the judge orders, the names of the people involved in your case, and the next court date. Make sure to ask questions if there is something you do not understand, and ask for a copy of any court orders from your case. Most people don't understand everything that happens in court so don't worry if you don't understand, but always ask questions of your attorney or GAL if you don't understand.

If you are not comfortable speaking up during the hearing, you can ask to speak with the judge "in chambers." They may allow you to talk to them with a few other people, like your GAL, in their office.

Notes to take when you're in court

- What the judge orders
- Names of everyone in the case - like CASA volunteer, GAL, case worker
- Ask questions about anything you don't understand
- Ask for a copy of any court orders from your case

How do I get people to listen to me?

Complete Youth Court Questionnaire

Another way you can communicate with your judge is by filling out the Youth Court Questionnaire. A copy of the form can be found on this website:

supremecourt.nebraska.gov/sites/default/files/Programs/CIP/youth_court_form_june2014_0.pdf

Scan to go directly to the Youth Court
Questionnaire

There are several ways to deliver the questionnaire to your judge:

- Give it to your GAL, CASA or caseworker
- Bring it with you to your next court hearing
- Mail it to the Clerk of the Court in your city or county

You can also ask your GAL, CASA or caseworker for a copy of the Youth Court Questionnaire.

Talk with your GAL and/or Attorney

It is very important that you have regular contact with your GAL and/or attorney. There is space in the back of this book where you can write down their contact information like phone numbers and email addresses. It is very important that you let them know if your address or phone number changes.

It is the job of your GAL and attorney to guide you through the court process and make sure you understand what is happening throughout your case. Your attorney has to advocate for what you want to happen in your case. What your GAL advocates for may or may not be exactly the same as what you want to happen. However, your GAL must consider your opinion before they tell the judge what they believe is in your best interest.

If you disagree strongly with your GAL about what they recommend, be sure to go to court or send in a Youth Court Questionnaire so the judge knows what you think. You can also ask the judge to appoint an attorney for you.

If you are in immediate danger
call 911 or the Child Abuse and Neglect Hotline
1-800-652-1999.

How do I get people to listen to me?

Talk with your Case Worker/Family Permanency Specialist

If talking with your GAL or attorney doesn't work, you should talk to your case worker. It is their job to help you through the court process. The people who are working on your case also have supervisors whose job is to make sure your workers are doing their job. You can always ask to speak to your worker's supervisors.

Talk with your Judge

Never forget that your judge is there to help. Complete your Youth Court Questionnaire at the back of this book to tell your judge what you need to.

Grievance process

A grievance (complaint) process is a way for you to take issues or problems you might have to another authority. Sometimes this is complicated, but it is a way of making your voice heard. State agencies like detention facilities, the Foster Care Review Office, and the Department of Health and Human Services and their departments (like Children and Family Services) as well as other agencies like Project Everlast and Voices for Children all have processes to file grievances. The best way to find out how to do this is to look at the website to find out how the agency you might be having problems with has laid out their own process. Sometimes it involves filling out a form or making a phone call.

Plan for Your Future

Soon you will be responsible for things that you weren't before, like rent, gas and food. Everyone is different and what works for one person may not work for you. However, one thing is certain, to reach your goals you need to work at it!

Transition to Adulthood

Every kid who is 16 years or older, who is also a state ward, is required to have a Transitional Living Plan. A Transitional Living Plan lays out what your future goals are and how you can reach those goals. It can also help you figure out what you want your goals to be. This is your plan, and you are to be in the driver's seat! Make sure you talk to your caseworker, GAL, CASA, and other trusted adults about your Transition Plan.

This Transition Plan should be reviewed at every court hearing. Tell the judge if you have any concerns with the plan or turn in a Youth Court Questionnaire. Once you turn 16 in a child welfare case, you may possibly get a PALS worker. A PALS worker knows about services, like education assistance and job training, that are available in your community which have helped lots of other kids reach their goals.

Before you age out of foster care, be sure to get these from your caseworker or get help in getting them:

- Birth Certificate
- Social Security Card
- State-Issued I.D.

You must have these to buy a car, get a job, or rent an apartment.

Understand the Bridge to Independence (B2I) Program

The Bridge to Independence Program was created to help you move successfully into adulthood by giving you support, health insurance and living costs until you turn 21.

If you age out of foster care or get discharged into independent living, you can enroll in the Bridge to Independence Program when you turn 19. Instead of a caseworker, you will have an Independence Coordinator whose job is to help you reach your goals. If you are eligible, you can join and leave the program at any time. The choice is up to you.

To participate in the program you have to be in school, working, and/or participating in a job program, or have a medical condition which makes you unable to work. You have to keep in contact with your Independence Coordinator who will help you connect with services. You also have a right to an attorney, who will work for you to make sure you are getting everything you need.

It's never too early to start thinking about this program. Talk with your caseworker and guardian ad litem about it. This is a great way to help you make a successful move to adulthood. For further assistance, contact DHHS at 402-471-3121 or dhhs.b2i@nebraska.gov or Nebraska Appleseed at 1-800-845-3746 or neappleseed.org/b2i.

Central Navigator

Central Navigator is a point for kids in Nebraska to help find out what you need and who to contact. Contact the Central Navigator in your area. If you don't know who that person is, complete the common referral form on page 35, which can also be found online.

Plan for Your Future

Things to Think About

There are lots of things to think about as you get older. Listed below are a few of the major issues that you will need to think about.

Education

High School

Earning your high school diploma or your GED puts you in a better position to get the kind of job you want and to earn more money.

School is not easy, but it is worth it, and you do not have to do it alone. There are lots of people whose job is to help you graduate. Visit your school counselor. Go see your teachers after class. Tell your caseworker or judge that you need extra help.

Getting a GED

If you were unable to stay in school and graduate, you can also earn your GED, which stands for General Educational Development. Most people treat this the same as a high school diploma but not everyone. Some colleges may not accept a GED. You can find out more about the GED test at the Nebraska Department of Education website: education.ne.gov.

You can also find more information at gedtestingservice.com. To pass the test, you are going to have to study. And you can get help studying online for free at the McGraw-Hill's GED Online Learning Center (Google it!) and GEDforfree.com. The Center for People in Need also provides GED classes for free. Go to centerforpeopleinneed.org.

If you live in Omaha, another option besides a GED is the D2 Center. The D2 Center allows you to earn high school credit. They also have a Careers & Community Engagement Program that helps you find out what career might be best for you. For more information, go to d2center.org or call 402-502-8534.

College & Vocational Schools

After you earn your high school diploma or GED you can enter college or a vocational school. Colleges come in all shapes and sizes from local community colleges to giant public universities. You can also attend a vocational school or complete a technical program that will help you get the job you want. Licensed electricians make an average of $21 per hour in Nebraska and a four-year college can help you achieve your dream of being a nurse or a lawyer. There are lots of scholarships and financial aid available too. Be sure to ask your workers and counselors for help as you prepare for your career.

Assistance in Paying for Education and Training

Learn more about educational and training vouchers (ETV) at www.central-plains.org/etv.html.

Project Everlast: LEAP Scholarships - LEAP gives you the support and guidance you need to be successful in your education and go after your goals. Contact Brittney Livingston, Omaha Central Navigator, blivingston@nebraskachildren.org (Omaha) or Lindsey Drake, Lincoln Central Navigator, ldrake@hublincoln.org (Lincoln) for more information.

Tips for Succeeding in High School

Moving homes does not mean you should move schools. You have a right to ask to stay at your same school, and they can only move you if it is in your best interests.

Stay on top of your grades. Check in and make sure your grades are where you want them to be. Do this early! You will be out of luck if you wait until the end of the semester.

Get involved with extracurricular activities, like sports, band, or clubs. If the activities cost money or you need help with transportation, talk to your caseworker, attorney or foster parent(s). If you still need help, tell your judge!

Plan for Your Future

Housing

to make sure you have a good place to live.

You need to figure out where you are going to live. Finding the right housing is one of the toughest things you'll have to figure out as you become an adult. Many young people end up moving from apartment to apartment or even becoming homeless. You need to plan ahead

Relative or Permanent Connection

Do you have a strong, permanent connection with someone in your life? Maybe an aunt or a pastor? Is this someone who may be willing to make a commitment to you to let you live with them? Start thinking about this early and talk with them. Work out a plan with them for how long you expect to stay and what you will be doing to try to get a home of your own.

Low Income Housing

Some towns have low-income housing available. There are income requirements to live in this type of housing but if you qualify, your rent will be based on how much money you make. To find out if there is low-income housing in your area, contact your local Housing Authority.

Sharing an Apartment

Do you have people you trust who are also looking for a place to stay? Together, you can look at signing a lease for an apartment. Leases are usually for one year so you need to make sure you will stay there that long and that you and the others will be able to pay rent. Make sure you read and understand the lease before you sign it.

College Dorms

If you are in college, living on campus may be a good option. Make sure you include these costs in your budget when figuring out where to go to college and how to pay for it. If you live in the dorms and need a place to stay during winter and spring breaks, talk to the Dean of Student Services at your college.

Transitional Living Centers

There are homes in Nebraska that provide housing for young people until they can find something permanent. They are often called Transitional Living Centers and often provide other services to help you become independent. You should talk to your caseworker about centers that might be in your area, but there are also some listed on our website.

Banking and Finances

Connected Youth Initiative

The Connected Youth Initiative provides additional assistance and support to kids aged 14-23 who are lacking the traditional networks needed to make successful transitions to adulthood. The CYI focuses on finances, including improving financial literacy; repairing, maintaining, or establishing credit; reducing dependence on predatory lending practices; and building developmentally appropriate relationships with community banking providers, products, and services.

If you do find yourself homeless or in a crisis, you can call the Boys Town National Hotline 1-800-448-3000 or the Answers 4 Families Hotline 1-800-746-8420.

Plan for Your Future

Opportunity Passport™

Part of the Jim Casey Youth Opportunities Initiative, the Opportunity Passport™ program helps young people navigate their future goals through a program of financial education and asset development. The goal is to help youth develop an understanding of managing personal finances, credit and banking as they transition to adulthood. Opportunity Passport™ now operates in over 40 counties in Nebraska. To connect to the Opportunity Passport™ program, contact your community's central navigator.

Community Action Partnership \ 210 O St \ 402-471-4515

Money Management Education, using a curriculum created by the FDIC, the financial literacy program helps clients develop financial skills including budgeting, saving, and credit management. Opportunity Passport: an asset-building program that includes financial education, asset-specific training, and a matched savings account (IDA). Young people between the age of 14-26, who have been or currently are in foster care, are eligible to enroll in the program.

Low-interest Loan Program

Nebraska Children and financial partners across the state are offering low-interest, low-risk loans for young people who are receiving financial case management or coaching. Backed by collateral provided by Nebraska Children, the loans offer interest rates below 4% and a guarantee that the young person will not end up with a loan foreclosure on their record. Youth are offered the opportunity to secure a loan for up to $2000 for a term of up to 24 months for a variety of needs including debt consolidation, vehicle purchase or repair, housing needs, health needs, education and/or training needs, and small business start-up costs. Coaches work with young people to determine if a loan is the right step for them and continue to provide support throughout the term of the loan to help the young person be successful. The loan program offers young people the opportunity to build or repair their credit, learn positive financial behaviors, and build relationships with financial institutions in their community. For more information on the loan program contact Kris Whisenhunt at kwhisenhunt@nebraskachildren.org.

Employment

Figuring out what you want to do with your life is one of the toughest things you'll do. There are a lot of services that can help you figure out what kind of job you'd like the best. You can search for jobs on NEWorks.nebraska.gov, and find information about employment and training at www.dol.nebraska.gov/EmploymentAndTraining.

You can also take a look at the Workforce Innovation Opportunities Act (WIOA), a part of the U.S. Department of Labor to find employment resources. www.doleta.gov/wioa/

Transportation

Finding a way to get around is very important. You need to figure out how you will get to your job, school, grocery shopping and appointments.

First you might need to get a driver's license. This can be a tricky process when you are in the system so be sure to ask your caseworker to include this in your transition plan. You can find out more about how to learn to drive, taking driver's education classes and how and what documents you will need, to get your license at the Department of Motor Vehicles website dmv.nebraska.gov. Cars cost a lot of money. So, if you are going to buy one, you need to start saving early. Not only do you have to buy the car, but you have to buy gas, car insurance, and car registration. Not everyone needs a car so see if you have other options.

You may be able to participate in the Opportunity Passport program through Project Everlast. This program helps you save money for a big purchase, like a car, and then chips in some extra money once you have saved enough. To enroll, contact the Central Navigator in your area.

Health Care

Health Insurance

Getting insured helps you pay for any medical services you will need. This includes physical health, dental health and mental health. Our website has tips for how to find the right health care for you. You don't want to wait until it is an emergency to take care of yourself.

If you were in foster care at age 18 or you aged out of foster care, you can enroll in Medicaid and be eligible up to the age of 26. You could also get medical care after enrolling in the Bridge to Independence program. If you're not able to get Medicaid you may enroll for health insurance at healthcare.gov.

Some doctors will only take certain types of insurance. If you have Medicaid, there are some doctors who won't accept it. Make sure you find out which doctors take your insurance. If you aren't going to be using insurance, you will want to find a sliding-fee scale provider. These medical providers will charge you an amount based on how much money you make. The less money you make, the less money you will pay them. You can search the internet to help you locate sliding scale providers and providers who can help with mental health and /or substance abuse resources.

Medications

You have the right to play a role in any treatment you are receiving. Talk to your doctor or healthcare provider about side effects of and reasons for the medications you may be prescribed, and the overall treatment plan.

Family Planning and Sex Education

You have a right to get birth control. Talk to your caseworker or doctor if you are sexually active or may become sexually active so that you can get more information. If you need an exam, birth control or STD testing and want to keep it private, you can go to a family planning and preventative health services (Title X) clinic. If you become pregnant, you have a right to make your own decisions about your pregnancy. Talk to your caseworker or doctor right away if you think you may be pregnant.

Parenting Resources

There are services available for pregnant mothers and new parent(s). WIC serves pregnant and postpartum women and children up to age 5. They provide food vouchers, health screens and lead tests. Call 1-800-942-1171 for additional resources.

You may also be able to get help from home visiting nurses. Home Visiting is a free, voluntary program that supports families. Nebraska Home Visiting is a network across the state; for more information call 402-471-1938 to get connected to a program near you. Healthy Families America also provides home visiting in Auburn, Lincoln, North Platte, Omaha and Scottsbluff. Their contact information can be found on their website. If you are in the Omaha area, you could also call the Visiting Nurse Association at 402-342-5566.

The State of Nebraska also has a Healthy Mothers Healthy Babies Helpline that you can call at 1-800-862-1889. There are many other parenting programs and resources so talk with your caseworker and ask for a list of services.

Well-Being

It may seem obvious but living a healthy life is the best way to stay healthy. You've heard it before: don't drink, don't smoke, drink water, eat fruits and vegetables, get enough sleep and avoid stress. It is important that you get some exercise and stay active. You may even qualify for a free or reduced rate membership at your local YMCA.

Nebraska State Bar Association Volunteer Lawyers Project \ 402-475-7091

- Direct Case Placement: The core of the VLP has been matching volunteer attorneys with individuals who need legal assistance on a pro bono or reduced fee basis. VLP will continue to offer direct case placement through its network of pro bono attorneys, but the intake process and referral source has changed. VLP no longer has the staff to operate a separate intake hotline/process. Referrals and intakes will now be received in the following ways:

- Referrals from Self Help Centers: Some clients who visit the Self-Help Center have legal issues/situations where staff would advise them to seek legal counsel rather than proceeding as a pro se litigant. In these situations, VLP staff will conduct a client intake, check conflicts, and work to place the case through VLP's volunteer network.

- Referrals from Domestic Violence Shelters: VLP has had a long standing commitment to serving victims of domestic violence. When the need for legal services arises, domestic violence shelters will contact VLP directly to complete the intake process. In these situations, VLP staff will check for conflicts, and work to place the case through VLP's volunteer network.

- Referrals from Legal Aid of Nebraska (LAN): VLP will accept 40 referrals a month from LAN. To be accepted by VLP, the referrals must be sent with a completed LAN intake and fall within the VLP priorities.. Referrals from private attorneys where there is not a self-help desk located in their community. The Self Help Center is located inside the Courthouse. Lancaster County: Open Monday 10:00am-2:00pm and Thursday 9:00am-1:00pm.

Appendix C - Glossary of Terms

Understanding Terms

The juvenile court system uses a lot of language that is not used by the average person. Here are what some of those terms mean:

Abused or Neglected Child: A child who has been harmed, or is at risk of being harmed by physical violence or emotional abuse, by someone responsible for caring for him or her; or a child who has been harmed or is at risk of being harmed, because the person responsible for him or her does not provide the necessary care for the child.

Adjudication: The process of a judge making a decision as to whether the facts alleged in a petition or other pleadings are true. Judicial determination (judgment) that a juvenile is responsible for the delinquency or status offense that is charged in a petition or other charging document.

Ageing Out: Turning the age of 19 while you still have a case open in juvenile court. Once you turn 19, you “age out” of the system, will no longer be a state ward and your case will close.

Allegations: In either a child welfare or a juvenile justice case, these are statements written in the petition of what is believed to have happened. An example of an allegation is “the father hits the mother when he is drinking.” In a juvenile justice case, the State would say what law they believe was broken, for example “disorderly conduct.” The State has to prove the allegations in court.

Appeal: A request to a higher court to review the decision of the trial court. This happens when a party to the case disagrees with the decision of the trial judge. The higher court will determine if the original decision was correct or not.

CASA: Court Appointed Special Advocate, a volunteer chosen to represent YOUR interests in court.

Case Plan: A written plan from the caseworker about what care and treatment should be provided to you and your family. It includes things like the permanency goal and what services are being provided and recommended. In a juvenile justice case, it may not be called a case plan, but your probation officer should prepare a plan outlining what is expected of you while you are on probation.

Concurrent Plan: A permanency plan generally has two permanency goals: The primary plan and the concurrent plan. The concurrent plan is the “back-up” plan in case the primary plan does not workout. For example, your primary plan may be reunification with a concurrent plan of independent living.

Continuance: The postponement of a hearing, trial or other scheduled court proceeding, at the request of one or both parties, or by the judge without consulting them.

Delinquency: Minor crime, especially committed by young people

Disposition: Within the Administrative Office of Probation, sanction ordered or treatment plan decided upon or initiated in a particular case by a juvenile court. The range of options available to a court typically includes commitment to an institution; placement in a group or foster home or other residential facility; probation; referral to an outside agency, day treatment, or mental health program; or imposition of a fine, community service, or restitution. Within the Division of Children and Family Services, the court's determination of a case in which there is an issuance of a final order or opinion.

Due Process: A legal requirement that the courts follow a certain process so that people's constitutional rights are protected.

Evidence: Proof or testimony submitted by the parties to help the court determine the truth or falsity of the allegations.

Family permanency specialist: A person assigned to your family to assess and ensure child and youth safety, permanency, and well-being.

Finding: A decision made by a judge. An example of this is a finding that it is in the young person's best interest to attend a certain school.

Family Group Conference (FGC):

A meeting the judge may order where you and a group of people who you trust, gather to talk about plans for your future. A FGC is led by a mediator whose job is to create a safe space for the team to discuss what is needed in your case.

Guardian ad litem (GAL): An attorney appointed by the court to act in the minor's or an incompetent adult's behalf in a lawsuit and protect the minor's or adult's best interests in court.

Hearing: A proceeding with the judge where the parties discuss issues in your case and the judge will issue findings and orders.

Indian Child Welfare Act (ICWA): A state and federal law regarding Native American children that regulates placement proceedings involving Native American families. The goal of the act when it passed in 1978 was to strengthen and preserve Native American families and culture.

Initial assessment caseworker: A case worker or social worker who first makes contact with you after being removed from your home

Jurisdiction: (1) The legal authority of a court to hear and decide a case. Concurrent jurisdiction exists when two courts have simultaneous responsibility for the same case. (2) The geographic area over which the court has authority to decide cases.

Minor: A person who is under the age to make legal decisions. In Nebraska, the age of majority is 19 years of age.

Motion: A formal proposal (suggestion or request) put to a court or judge. The judge must decide whether to agree to the motion or not.

Normalcy: The quality or condition of being normal, as close to how a regular home and family should be

On-going caseworker: A case worker or social worker that is assigned to you after your initial assessment.

PALS worker: A person who represents the Central Plains Center for Services PALS project (Preparation, Transition and Independent Living Services) who will make sure your plan and the work you do is directed to your specific needs, making it unique to you.

Permanency Plan: A plan that states what the permanency goal is (reunification, adoption, guardianship or independent living) and how it will be achieved.

Petition: This is a form that is filed in juvenile court when the State opens a child welfare or juvenile justice case.

Pre-Disposition Investigation (PDI): This is a report prepared by a probation officer for youth prior to a disposition hearing in a juvenile justice case. The probation officer will meet with youth and his or her family to determine what the youth and family need to complete during the period of probation.

Pre-Hearing Conference: A facilitated meeting prior to appearing in court and held to gain the cooperation of the parties, to offer services and treatment and to develop a problem-solving atmosphere in the best interests of children involved in the juvenile court system.
